Navamsa and its Technique

Navamsa

- It is derived by dividing each zodiac sign (30°) into nine equal parts of 3°20′ each.
- When someone ask there is free will or not then my guru ji say both because bhagaya is d9 chart and d10 is karma chart
- We see what fruit or result of the karma we do in the D1 chart came to us by navamsa
- Actuall Dignity and strength of the planet is seen from this chart. what kind of result it gave in native life.
- Note:If a planet in 6 , 8 ,12 bhava navamsa then it causes trouble

- Planet has more power to fulfil it agenda in its dasha antardasha and become powerful

Pushkara Navamsa (“Pushti” = Nourishment)

- Planets placed in Pushkara Navamsa become strong and powerful.
- These are located in natural benefic Navamsas.
- If the Lagna falls in a Pushkara Navamsa, then the whole chart becomes very strong.

- The "kark tatva" (nourishing capacity) of planets increases further.

64th Navamsa

- If you want to calculate the 64th Navamsa for the Ascendant, then check which sign is rising in the 4th house from it in the Navamsa (D9).Suppose you have Pisces Ascendant and Capricorn Navamsa (Navamsha Lagna).To find the 64th Navamsa for the Ascendant, count 4 signs from Capricorn, which lands on Aries.Therefore, Aries becomes the 64th Navamsha for the Ascendant.The lord of Aries is Mars, which is then referred to as the Chiddra Planet (a sensitive/karmic point planet).
- Transit of malefics over the 64th Navamsa can give severe negative events
- This point as indicative of unresolved karmic issues from past lives, manifesting as obstacles in the current life

Navamsa-Based Planetary Strength Transitions

- If a planet is debilitated in D1 and exalted in D9,
  → the start of the result is tough, but the end is good.
- If a planet is exalted in D1 and debilitated in D9,
  → the start is good, but the end does not go well.

Rashi tulya navasma

- We rotate the and make the house as ascendant which has the same rashi as of the lagna of the d1 chart

- The planet that comes in 6,8,12 th will cause problem
    1. 6th: Has to fight from illness or kark of that planet will get sick

Gulika: Son of saturn

Gulika’s role is to force us to pay attention to what we usually avoid or ignore. It doesn’t let us escape the consequences of our unfinished karma. If we ignore its call, it causes extra suffering and challenges. But if we listen and focus on what it highlights, it can even lead to liberation (mukti). Unlike other planets, Gulika cannot be controlled by anyone else — we have to control it ourselves by facing and clearing those remaining karmic debts. Gulika repeatedly forces our focus back to those karmas, but it does so in a harsh or uncomfortable way, making the process difficult. This pressure comes from deep inside, pushing us to confront what we have been avoiding.

Mythology : When the shani dev married but due to sadhna they don't get time for wife Due to which the chaya gave them sharap due to which heat produced and sweat of shanidev the gulika take birth Gulika birth is taken in the harsh condition so they have too face the lot of challenges where it placed but in upachaya houses it work well , It represent the 5 Mukh sarp which control the 5 kosha and where it that energy of house it effects

Kosh story :Panchakosha is a yogic concept that describes human existence as composed of five layers or sheaths. These are: Annamaya Kosha, Pranamaya Kosha, Manomaya Kosha, Vijnanamaya Kosha, and Anandamaya Kosha. Each kosha represents a distinct dimension of our being and is interconnected with the others.

The Annamaya Kosha is related to the physical body and the material world, encompassing food, sleep, and physical activities. The Pranamaya Kosha refers to life energy or prana, governing the flow of vitality throughout the body. The Manomaya Kosha is associated with the mind, emotions, and thoughts, including experiences like joy, anxiety, and other mental states. The Vijnanamaya Kosha represents intellect, wisdom, and reasoning, covering activities such as learning, memory, and decision-making. Lastly, the Anandamaya Kosha pertains to bliss, inner joy, and self-realization, encompassing feelings of love, compassion, and spiritual experiences.

Atmakaraka

There are 8 Atmakaraka planets, including Rahu.

Rahu becomes Pitru Karaka, but for those who follow the path of Dharma and perform pind daan, it will not act as Pitru Karaka.

Description of Atmakaraka Planet in All Houses:

1st House:
This house indicates the self, birthplace, decision-making ability, success/failure, thoughts, and nature.
If Atmakaraka is in this house, the purpose of the soul is to uplift the self, understand one's true nature, and develop one's personality.
Life should be shaped by self-decisions. There may be problems in starting something new.
For example, if Sun is Atmakaraka and in the Lagna, the person has taken birth for authority and fame.
But due to ego, they may face difficulty adopting new ventures.
The house where Atmakaraka is placed gives challenges in that domain during the journey of the soul.
(If Atmakaraka and Lagna have a mutual connection, the person benefits throughout life because their birth purpose and desire align.)

2nd House:
If Atmakaraka is here, the soul's purpose is to keep the family united, earn wealth, and explore new sources of income.
The person must live for the family.

3rd House:
This house tells about past life and subconscious talents.
If Atmakaraka is in the 3rd house, the person carries a skill from the past life and improves it with hard work in this life.
These people are learners through travel. Their purpose is to travel and grow.

4th House:
If Atmakaraka is here, decisions are mostly emotional.
The goal is to attain peace. These individuals often change their residence.
But they feel safest in their original living space.

5th House:
If Atmakaraka is here, the person does things not for personal gain but for the soul.
Their mind remains engaged continuously.
They desire ideal love, but issues in love life may occur.
The problem arises from the house ruled by the Atmakaraka if placed here.

6th House:
Here, the person faces enemies and diseases.

Their purpose is service.
If Venus is Atmakaraka here, the person must support the spouse financially during tough times.
Sometimes, the spouse enters life for material reasons.

7th House:
This is not considered a good placement.
The person's life revolves only around the spouse, which affects focus on other aspects.
